The Mediterranean architecture of this Island Estates waterfront home in Aventura is carried through in the kitchen for a timeless beauty. A welcoming hearth structure and echoing arch shapes generate a classic feel. Giallo Veneziano granite countertops and travertine flooring continue the theme. Buff-colored cabinetry ties in with the stone, including the door panels on a Sub-Zero refrigerator and matching freezer. The kitchen also features a Viking gas stove and double oven and a Miele dishwasher, plus an extra one in the butler's pantry. The adjacent breakfast and family room presents a versatile space for entertaining, while leather and wrought-iron bar chairs offer the opportunity for a quick bite or an intimate chat with the cook. Designed as a model, the house is now home to the developer, Gary Cohen. "My wife fell in love with it," he says.
